Dear Parents and Carers,

The transmission rates around Coldfall continue to increase and are currently at 1,347 cases per 100,000. Given the extremely concerning picture for our local hospitals and NHS, we are strongly recommending that critical worker (previously known as key worker) parents only send in their children (in line with the DfE document January 2021 "...parents and carers who are critical workers should keep their children at home if they can.") if absolutely necessary.

We can accommodate a maximum of 15 children per year group bubble, as there are stringent requirements around keeping groups small and classroom layout. We also only have a limited number of staff. We would ask that you support the community to remain as safe as possible in the best interests of us all. The sooner we gain control of the virus, the sooner the school will be able to fully re-open.

With many thanks,

Yours sincerely,

Evelyn Davies
